ABOUT THE SEMINAR

One of the important challenges for HRM in the changing environment is Managing "Change" itself. For managing Change effectively, organizations need to take a proactive and interactive approach, rather than a reactive one. Since change is inevitable, the adaptation process becomes easier if a situation requiring change is perceived as an opportunity and not a threat. The importance of managing change thus becomes crucial for organizations to gain a competitive edge over others.

The seminar is concerned with emerging issues and challenges in the Human Resource Management. The seminar will provide an opportunity to HR managers, Academicians, Research Scholars and the student community to share their thoughts, Views and experiences. For this purpose participants are requested to send in any of the following sub themes.
